

AUDITION MONOLOGUES

Donna: Cool with it? You don't know my daughter. This would be like a bombshell. And I don't know that. I don't know where they are. I don't know why they are here. And I have brought this all on myself. Why have they all turned up like this? It's like some horrible trick of Fate! I don't want them spoiling this. They've got no right to turn up on the day of Sophie's wedding - what have they ever done for their daughter? I've done a good job with Soph all on my own.

Sophie: Call... call off the wedding? What?! No! No. no that's what you want! Yes! You Just... You have no idea. You never had a wedding. You never did the marriage-and-babies thing. You just did the baby thing. Well good for you. Because I... I love Sky, and I want to be with him! And I don't want my children growing up, not knowing who their father is!

Sam: I see that, but she's so young. I mean does she know what she really wants? Is Sky the one for her? You see, I think that a part of her just wants to let you know that she isn't going to leave you alone here, on your own, on this island. Donna look, I have two grown children I know something about letting go.

Bill & Harry: No, no I borrowed it. Look. No, where is it? D.S. Donna Sheridan and H.B. Head Banger. I bought her this. It cost me ten quid plus my Johnny rotten T-shirt. Your mother knew quite a rebel. I was studying in Paris when I met her. I hopped on a train and followed her to Greece, quite spontaneously. Donna knew my wild side.

Sky: Hold on, hold on, you invited these guys and you didn't tell me? Sophie? Is that what this whole big white wedding is about? You finding your dad? I wanted to take a boat to the mainland with a couple of witnesses. And you insisted on this sodding circus so you can play Happy Families. I thought we talked about everything, I thought we had trust, but you went behind my back for some stranger...

Tanya & Rosie: What's wrong with these kids? Do you remember those t-shirts we used to wear 'Marriage is an institution - for people who belong in an institution.' Girls today seem to think that a woman's greatest achievement is getting a man. You're safe this evening - it's a male-free zone at Sophie's party. And tomorrow - we will take them fishing.